GENERAL INFORMATION

This wine is made from three carefully selected vineyards in the Alto Vinalopó region, where limestone soils provide notable freshness and minerality. The blend combines Mediterranean native varieties Macabeo and Muscat with internationally renowned Chardonnay. Each variety is harvested at its optimal ripeness in a staggered schedule: Chardonnay (grown in sandy soil) is picked first, followed shortly by Macabeo and Muscat from calcareous soils. Fermentation is carried out with native yeasts in small stainless steel tanks to preserve primary aromas and the pure fruit character of each grape. After fermentation, the wines are blended with Macabeo as the main component, while Chardonnay and Muscat complete the structure and style. The final wine is then aged on fine lees to enhance texture and complexity.

TASTING NOTES

This Mediterranean-style wine is designed for enjoyment and food pairing, offering a fresh, agile, and easy-to-drink profile. It displays pronounced fruity and floral aromas, complemented by a smooth, expressive palate with good volume and elegance. The wine balances freshness with depth, making it versatile for a wide range of culinary pairings and a true representation of Mediterranean character.
